A CONTEST.

The Vacancies On The Naval Committees On The Part Of
The House And Senate Have Many Candidates.

Senator Jacob H. Gallinger Said
To Be The Strongest Candidate
To Succeed Hon. William E.
Chandler.

The Place On The Committee Rightfully Belongs To New Hampshire.

Washington, Oct. 27.—There will be some changes in the personnel in the house and senate naval committees in December. On the house committee Representative R. B. Hawley of Texas, a republican, will not return. He declined a renomination and a democrat now represents the district, although there are perhaps sixty or more candidates for the vacancy. There is no indication who will be selected by Speaker Cannon for the place. On the senate committee are two vacancies, Mr. William E. Chandler of New Hampshire and Mr. Marion Butler of North Carolina, who are not in the next congress. Mr. Chandler's place on the committee may be taken by one of three senators, all of whom are anxious to succeed him. One is Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts and another is Senator J. B. Foraker of Ohio and the third is Senator Jacob H. Gallinger of New Hampshire. The latter is a candidate on the ground that the committee place might properly be regarded as belonging to New Hampshire. Senator Lodge would be a good friend of the navy and a valuable all, on the committee. Ex-Senator Butler's position will be filled by a democrat, and the choice seems to rest between Senator A. O. Bacon of Georgia and Senator J. C. S. Blackburn of Kentucky, who is considered eligible on account of his previous record as member of the naval committee when he was formerly in the senate.

EXIT CZOLGOSZ AT SEVEN A. M.
TUESDAY.

Haverhill, Mass., Oct. 27.—Three men broke into the home of John Donovan on Elm street during last night and when he returned home shortly after midnight, they ransacked and otherwise severely injured him. His injuries attracted the attention of some people in the vicinity of the house, and the men were frightened away without securing any money, which no doubt they were after. The police claim to know who the parties are, but as yet no arrests have been made.

STILL WORKING FOR MISS
STONE'S RESCUE.

Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 27.—The hour of seven on Tuesday morning is the time set by Warden Mead for the execution of Czolgosz, the assassin of President McKinley. The chair in which Czolgosz will sit to receive the electric shock was examined and tested today by State Examiner Davis and it is all ready for the part it is to play in the final scene of the great tragedy. The death sentence has not yet been read to the prisoner, but it is believed that it will be tomorrow afternoon. The principal purpose of Capt. Collins and Warden Mead is to avoid even the appearance of sensationalism in this case. Dr. Carlisle S. McDonald, who is to be the principal attending physician at the execution and who is an expert alienist, has been very anxious to take away with him after the autopsy the prisoner's brains for the purpose of microscopic examination. He indicated his desire to Capt. Collins, but the latter replied: "Doctor, I have planned to make this execution an example of mystery that will forestall any attempt at sensationalism. I cannot allow anything to go away from the prison that will in any way continue this man's identity or notoriety. You may stay at the prison for a week if you will and examine any portion of the anatomy you please, but my present plan is not to allow any portion of the man, his clothing, or even the letters he receives, to leave this place." Dr. McDonald replied: "I would like to have taken the brains away, but I am frank to say that you are absolutely right in the matter. If I desire to make any examination I will do it at the prison." It is understood that an unrevoked law has been found that will allow the warden to refuse any request for Czolgosz's body from even his relatives, and will give the warden privilege of disposing of it. In that event, within two hours after the execution, unless Dr. McDonald desires to make an analysis of the brains, Czolgosz's body, clothes, letters, and everything reminiscent of him in the prison will be disposed of. The body of the assassin will be burned in quicklime and the clothes, letters and packages will be burned. And this is not all: Warden Mead, with Capt. Collins' approval, has decided that for the next thirty hours preceding the execution of Czolgosz, not one word of his condition or actions shall be given out from the prison; in other words, this man, beginning from midnight, is practically dead so far as the public is concerned.

MORE FIGHTING IN THE PHILIP.
PINES.

Manila, P. I., Oct. 27.—The authorities report a fight with insurgents near Paesi, province of Illoilo, island of Panay, in which twenty-five insurgents were killed and three captured, together with quantities of arms and ammunition. The news from General Hugh's regarding conditions in the island of Cebu is encouraging. Lorega has surrendered with his entire force, while Gen. Hughes is negotiating for the surrender of Maxilol, whose surrender will mean the pacification of the province. It is believed that the natives on the island of Samar were chiefly due to the lack of food among the insurgents.

MANY INJURED IN AN ELECTRIC CAR ACCIDENT.

Salem, Mass., Oct. 27.—By the breaking of a brake chain on an electric car, No. 230, of the Boston and Northern street railway company, on the steep grade on Washington street in the centre of the city, this evening, a collision resulted with a vestibule car and five persons were injured, some it is thought fatally. Four of the injured are Mr. and Mrs. George Wilkins and two children of Sam also. Both cars were crowded at the time, but all those injured were in car No. 230, which had the whole front stove in.

SANDBAGGED IN HIS OWN HOME.

Haverhill, Mass., Oct. 27.—Three men broke into the home of John Donovan on Elm street during last night and when he returned home shortly after midnight, they ransacked and otherwise severely injured him. His injuries attracted the attention of some people in the vicinity of the house, and the men were frightened away without securing any money, which no doubt they were after. The police claim to know who the parties are, but as yet no arrests have been made.

STILL WORKING FOR MISS
STONE'S RESCUE.

Constantinople, Oct. 27.—During the last two days there have been voluminous exchanges of despatches in cipher between Spencer Eddy, secretary of the United States legation and Consul-General Dickinson, who is now in Sofia, regarding efforts to rescue Miss Stone, the American missionary. Nothing has been made public as to the progress of the negotiations.

This is the common complaint of the dyspeptic.

If eating sparingly would cure dys-

The only way to cure dyspepsia, which is difficult digestion, is to give the mill will cost about $5,000,000 and will be the largest paper mill in the world. It will be so constructed so that additions may be erected in the future at a minimum of cost and without disturbing the symmetry of the mill as a whole. The machinery will be of the most improved, which will include mechanism for unloading

the immense amount of pulp and coal required, effecting a great saving of labor. Its capacity will be 500 tons of paper per day, 200 tons of news and 300 tons of book paper. Special arrangements will be made to utilize the screenings, chemicals and other waste from pulp and paper mills, in the manufacture of wrappers and coats of paper.

While the great product of the mill will be in the line of book and news paper, the machinery will be capable of turning out the best of the medium

grades, such as coated and glazed papers, cover paper and super-endured book which can be made at as good profit as the news paper.

There is no industry in the world today that has a better market than paper making. The consumption has increased about fifteen per cent annually for the past twenty years and the margin of profit has always been good when the product came from an economically managed concern that had provided itself with modern machinery.

In fact about all the industry respects to good poplar and spruce wood an abundant supply of clear soft water, modern machinery and good management all of which the White Mountain company has so done.

Some idea of the vastness of the teritory over which Mr. Plunkett will be called to preside may be gained from the capitalization of the new company, $25,000,000. This will be divided as follows: $10,000,000 first priority five per cent sinking fund,

thirty year gold bonds, $5,000,000 sever per cent cumulative preferred stock and $10,000,000 common stock.

The company will be organized under the laws of the state of New Jersey.

The place for all the buildings have been chosen the site for the same so selected, and work will commence on the erection of pulp and paper mills very soon, it being expected that the manufacture of paper will be begun

next spring.

Among those interested in the company with Mr. Plunkett are John

A LITTLE FISH STORY.

The Trout That Was Frozen Solid For Eleven Years.

In 1873 I was residing at Junction City, a pretty little town located in a romantic spot on the banks of Mill creek in central Wisconsin. The country at that time was new, and fish and game were plentiful. Mill creek was at the time famous for trout, stream, it being no trouble at all to catch fifty pounds of speckled trout in a half day's fishing. On Feb. 15, 1873—I remember that date because it was my twenty-first birthday—I took down my rifle and struck out into the forest for the purpose of killing a deer. I had wandered along the banks of the stream for a distance of perhaps two miles when I ran on to an old hunter who had cut a hole in the ice, through which he was fishing for trout. He was meeting with great success, for scattered all around him could be seen the speckled beauties, where he had thrown them as he took them off his hook. I was invited to help myself, which invitation I cheerfully accepted, and I proceeded to put a number of the fish in my gamebag.

It was just 4:47 o'clock when I returned home that afternoon, tired and hungry, and after barging up my rifle took one of the largest of the trout and placed it out in a large cold storage warehouse that stood near my house, intending to present it to Uncle Sam Carson for his breakfast the next morning. The fish was forgotten, and, as is usual, lay in that warehouse solidly frozen until June 10, 1884. Now comes the strange part of my story.

On the night of the date last mentioned, just about eleven years after this fish had been placed in the cold storage, the building was totally destroyed by fire. During the process of the fire the fire department, in the effort to save the property, had thrown sufficient water to fill up the cellar, which, by the way, was walled up in rock and timber and was therefore water tight. Three years later it was decided to rebuild the cold storage warehouse upon the site originally occupied, and men were set to work pumping the water out of the cellar, which the rains had kept well filled. To our amazement 447 fair sized speckled trout were taken out, besides the old one, which had evidently fallen into the cellar at the time the warehouse was destroyed, thawed out and spawned. The original trout was easily identified, one of its eyes having been accidentally knocked out and a part of its tail broken off before it was placed in the warehouse.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

ANIMAL ODDITIES.

Mosquitoes and other gnats furnish almost the sole food for a very large family of insect eating birds known as Bentechers.

Mosquitoes are not, as is popularly supposed, a hot climate insect. They are far more numerous in places where the winters are severe.

The age of fishes can be told by their scales. These show under the microscope stripes similar to the bands in the cross-section of a tree, which indicate the age of the fish.

Norwegian fishery commissioners have been measuring the salmon's leap by means of standards erected below waterfalls. They have found that the fish can leap to a height of twenty feet.

A horse owned in a Kentucky town has developed carnivorous inclinations. He rejoices in dining on spring chickens and recently ate fourteen for a square meal. He does not stop to remove the feathers.

There is a quaint little fish which haunts the weed-tracts of the gulf stream and there builds its nest and lays its eggs like a bird rather than a fish. This animal, the antennarius, imitates in color the weed it lives in and, like the chameleon, constantly changes its color.

One kind of wasp found in Brazil and Guiana makes its nest of a brilliant white pasteboard, suspending it from the highest branches of the trees, so as to escape the attention of the monkeys, which in those regions have a troublesome habit of investigating everything, even a hornet's nest.

Advertising For a Mayor.

"I believe that the Americans will finally come to accept the German method of choosing mayors for their cities," said M. L. Leitz of Stuttgart to a reporter. "In our country," he continued, "when a city wants a mayor it advertises for one. It is not uncommon to find in the advertising columns of a Berlin newspaper such a notice as this: 'Wanted, a mayor for the city of Mannheim!'

The mayor is employed the same as a pastor of a church or the president of a corporation. He follows the mayor's business from youth, just as an American would follow the iron or dry goods business. Such a man will generally begin as the executive of a small town. If he shows ability in cutting down the tax rate and at the same time improving the town, he will soon be called to a larger community. Thus such a man is advanced to places of high salary and honor as he shows ability and worth.—New York Tribune.

Washington Disliked Proximity.

The following is a general order issued by General Washington commander of the colonial armies, Aug. 3, 1776:

"The general is sorry to be informed that the foolish and wicked practice of profane cursing and swearing, a vice hitherto little known in any American army, is growing into fashion. He hopes the officers will, by example as well as influence, endeavor to check it, and that both they and the men will reflect that we can have little hope of the blessing of heaven on our arms if we insult it by our impurity and folly.

Added to this, it is vice so mean and low, without any temptation, that every man of sense and character detests and despises it."

Washington, Oct. 21.—Marquis Ito, the Japanese statesman, has arrived here. He was met at the railroad station by the Japanese minister, Mr. T. Ito, and the entire legation staff and escorted to the Arlington hotel, where he will remain during his stay in this city.

PHILANTHROPY DOES NOT PAY.

Discouraging Experience of the Fat and Energetic Man.

A wagon heavily loaded with paving stones was moving slowly along the street car tracks.

The motorman of the street car immediately in the rear was shouting and ringing the gong.

"Get out of there!" yelled the motorman.

"I'm gettin'," apathetically answered the driver, leisurely turning his horses to the right.

The horses succeeded in pulling the wagon partially off the track, but the front wheels sank into a hole in the worn out pavement and refused to move any farther.

In vain the driver used strong language and the horses tugged.

They could almost do it, but not quite.

A large, beefy policeman standing near looked on impassively. There was no emergency calling for his interference, and he didn't interfere.

But an equally large and beefy passenger, with broad shoulders, thick neck and a hand like a smoked ham, became impatient.

"All they need," he said, climbing out of the car and addressing the driver, "is a little help. Get down off that wagon and take hold of that front wheel."

"I guess not," replied the driver. "I ain't paid for pullin' this wagon."

"You're not paid for stopping a whole carload of passengers, either. Get down off that wagon, or I'll pull you down, you ugly brute!"

"Get down!" yelled a dozen passengers.

The man slowly climbed down.

"That takes a hundred and sixty pounds of hose off the load," commented the aggressive passenger, stooping down and grasping a spoke of the wheel nearest him. "Now hold the lines in one hand, speak to your horses and pull up on that other wheel. Ready? Now!"

The horses tugged, the big man heaved with all his might, and the wagon moved off the track.

There was a cheer from the passengers, the conductor gave the bell two quick rings, the motorman turned on the power and the car dashed ahead, leaving the large, beefy man standing in the roadway, wiping his forehead with his handkerchief and gazing with open mouthed bewilderment at the vanishing car.

"Well, by gawd," was all he said.

Sometimes it doesn't pay to be a benefactor to one's fellow men.—Chicago Tribune.

USE OF PERFUMES.

The Habit a Good One From a Hygienic Standpoint.

A considerable difference of opinion exists in regard to the propriety of using perfume upon the person. The practice is of oriental origin and had for its original object the desire to make the person pleasing to the opposite sex.

It should be remembered that the basis of all perfumes is an essential oil of some kind, derived either from flowers or leaves or artificially by a synthetic process. In either case the essential oil is a powerful antiseptic and possesses disinfectant properties, not to be denied than those of ordinary soap itself.

Another force of 350 American marines, under the command of Major N. T. Waller, the hero of Tientsin and the Peking relief expedition, has landed from the flagship New York and is being sent in detachments to garrison strategic points in the island.

SWIFT RETRIBUTION.

A swift and terrible retribution will overtake the barbarous tribesmen of the mountains, who twice treacherously attacked small details of the Ninth United States infantry, in one instance putting fifty-eight of our brave soldiers to death and in the second encounter killing ten Americans and leaving 100 of their own number dead on the field.

The blow to avenge the men of the Ninth is both swift and sure.

It consists of a drastic campaign, almost an extermination.

Soldiers and marines are eager for an opportunity to avenge a reckoning for the Americans killed.

The handkerchief may easily prove a source of infection for it is made to be the common receptacle of secretions from the nose and mouth, and the employment of an antiseptic handkerchief is perfectly consistent with the dictates of common bacteriological evidence. The liberal use of soap on the handkerchief is calculated to make it antiseptic and to destroy the germs in it, owing to the action partly of the spirit of the soap and partly of the essential oils dissolved in the spirit. Before, therefore, we condemn the persons who use soap upon the handkerchief for practicing a foolish or injurious habit, we should remember that they may actually be doing good to their neighbors by checking the distribution of infectious materials.—Lancet.

The Ghetto.

Mr. L. Zangwill, the famous Jewish author, once wrote the following letter to the editor of the word "ghetto":

"I don't think any other convincing theory of 'ghetto' has been adduced, though the most likely connection is with the 'ghetto,' or iron foundry, in the quarter of Venice to which the Jews were assigned in 1516. As this was the first compulsory Jewish quarter in Italy the name, it is believed, may have come from the name 'ghetto' or foundry, which is derived from the Latin 'fundere,' to melt or pour."

It is believed that Major General Lloyd Wheaton will be sent from Manila to take supreme command of both the army and navy forces in Samar.

More reinforcements are to be hurried from Europe.

TO CONCENTRATE AMIGOS.

All Natives Found Outside Towns Will Be Treated as Rebels—Cordon of Twenty-five Warships surrounds the Island.

Manila, Oct. 26.—Twenty-five American warships have drawn a cordon closely about the island of Samar and its savage bolomen, who recently ambushed and killed American soldiers.

The people of the island have been notified to concentrate in the towns. Otherwise they will be treated as outlaws.

Rear Admiral Frederick Rodgers, commanding the naval forces in the Philippines, sends word that he has the island completely invested by sea and land and that every vestige of opposition to the authority of the United States will be stamped out within two weeks.

"Butts" Cronin Gets Three to Seven Years in Prison.

Maude Besse Goes to State Prison for Two Years Term.

Other Portsmouth Prisoners Sentenced in the Superior Court.

The principal business in the superior court in this city, before Judge Young, this forenoon, was the arraignment of prisoners who had retracted their pleas of not guilty and who pleaded guilty. Those who did this were at once sentenced and the cases disposed of.

Timothy Cronin, who already had a suspended sentence for larceny from the person, pleaded guilty to another offence, when he grabbed a watch from a fellow at the North end. Lawyer E. L. Guptill appeared for the respondent. Marshal Entwistle testified as to the character of Cronin and Judge Young imposed a sentence of from three to seven years in state prison.

Maude Besse, for grand larceny, was sent to state prison for a term of two years. She was above the age when she could have been sent to some other institution. While she was awaiting sentence on the indictment, she is alleged to have stolen from some of the people who had befriended her.

Frank Spofford of Kingston, for keeping a disorderly house, was fined $25 and costs. A sentence of one year in jail was suspended, to be enforced at the call of the city solicitor. Lawyer E. L. Guptill appeared for the respondent.

The case of J. R. Connell, Portsmouth, against the city of Portsmouth, for alleged damages from the construction of a sewer, was taken from the jury, on application of the court by City Solicitor S. Peter Emery, who had the matter of the city's interests left to him for disposition by a vote of the city councils on Saturday afternoon.

The case of W. F. Almeda, Boston vs. Cummings W. True, Derry, an action for alleged damages to a horse, pastured by the defendant, will be tried before a jury this afternoon. G. K. and B. T. Bartlett and Eastman & Hollis for plaintiff and Edgerly & Fuller for defendant.

The matter of Johnson vs. Marvin was settled by judgment of $150 for the plaintiff, without a jury trial. The suit was for wages for the care of the defendant's intestate.

Percy White, Ivah Spinney and Winfield Lee, who at first pleaded not guilty to larceny, retracted their pleas and pleaded guilty. White and Lee were sent to jail for six months each and a sentence of six months in Spinney's case was suspended. He has a good record in the navy and wants to re-enlist. The offence in this case was stealing lobsters. Lee and White are already bound over on breaking and entering charges.

When Paul M. Bamford of Exeter, was arraigned for grand larceny on Saturday, he disclosed to the court that he had disposed of a large quantity of jewelry he stole at Exeter, to a Dover jeweler. The county authorities instituted an investigation of the disclosure, but the jeweler who is alleged to have received the stolen property denies the charge. The matter, however, will not be allowed to drop and a rigid investigation will be made.

MILDRED HOLLAND.

Manager F. W. Hartford of Music hall received the following letter yesterday from Edward C. White, manager for Mildred Holland who will appear in the local theatre on Saturday night:

New York, Oct. 18th, 1901.

Mr. F. W. Hartford,
Manager of Music hall,
Portsmouth, N. H.

Dear Sir:—Replying to your favor will state in the most positive terms that Mildred Holland will appear with her company at Music hall on Nov. 2nd. I am at loss to understand why you should have any doubt in the matter. When I signed contracts with you I agreed to give you Mildred Holland on that night, therefore you will have the entire production, including Miss Holland, as per contract.

Very truly yours,
EDWARD C. WHITE.

OGUNQUIT.

Hymen is once more at work. Last Monday at eleven a. m., he led to the altar of matrimony the two most popular young people of the place. Mr. Herbert W. Bickford and Miss Grace Eaton Perkins. The young man and young woman have known each other for years, but had not been in each other's company much until last winter, when they met frequently at the Ogunquit Social club. A mutual admiration began then which ripened into love and a very pleasant home wedding was the result. The marriage was solemnized by the Rev. N. T. Ridlon at whose church the young people have been constant attendants. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride, her father, Mr. Samuel S. Perkins, and a few near relatives being present. After partaking of refreshments served by Mr. Joseph Clark, the caterer, Mr. and Mrs. Bickford started for Boston in a hack trimmed for the occasion with white ribbons and old shoes, being followed by showers of rice and shouts of good wishes and joy. It is expected that Mr. and Mrs. Bickford are at Buffalo at present where they will remain a week or so and return to Ogunquit, where they will reside.

At last the hotels are closed except the Ogunquit house, which will be open all winter.

Mr. W. F. Cossens and Charles Maxwell, of the firm of Bickford & Maxwell, are at the Pan-American.

The Ladies circle of the Methodist church met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. H. Mabel Littlefield. The shower in the evening prevent ed the presence of quite a number yet there was a quorum and transacted considerable business. They first arranged for a Halloween supper to be served on the last evening in October at the home of Mrs. Charles T. Hurd. After the supper there will be the usual Halloween performance which so much delight the young and amuse the old. They initiated a "talent system" of raising money for the repairs of the church. They are planning to begin repairs on the interior of the church right away and have assumed the entire cost of the repairs. The treasury already contains about $100 which will be sufficient to make a small start.

The play seems to be a division in the Clay Hill neighborhood about the meeting house built here a year or two ago. There is a great deal of contention as to who shall own the building and run the church. A justice of the peace was appealed to on one side and a warrant got out for a meeting Monday night. They met with a lawyer there to start them and organized a society. The other side protested and will have a meeting for the same purpose in the near future. The neighborhood is much excited over the matter.

Hand line fishing has commenced in earnest and the boats are doing very well. Wednesday there was a heavy wind and they had quite a time getting to land. Hiram Perkins, one of the oldest fishermen here, landed on the beach on account of the wind. John Perkins caught a cod that weighed more than 50 pounds.

UNITARIAN CHURCH.

Rev. Alfred Gooding preached on Sunday at Quincy, Mass., in exchange with Rev. E. C. Butler.

The latter, who is a most entertaining writer and speaker, at the close of the forenoon service delivered the Austin lecture to the Sabbath school in the chapel. A large congregation was present and much enjoyed the able discourse.

TO LOCATE IN THE WEST.

Dr. J. C. Moore of Manchester has recently returned to that city from the west and it is announced that he has received an offer, which he has accepted, to locate in a western city.

Atkinson has five couples who have rounded out the fifty years of happy married life, and a sixth will attain to that prominence Nov. 18.

THEATRICAL CHAT.

Manchester papers speak highly of Mildred Holland's work in The Power Behind the Throne, in that city Friday evening. Miss Holland is said by her advance agent to be a Christian Scientist.

Lewis Morrison has just finished a six weeks' tour of the Canadian provinces and appeared in Montreal during the visit of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York. So far, his tour has been the most prosperous of his career. The elaborate nature of the new production of this well-known play and a newly written scenic prologue which precedes it, in conjunction with Lewis Morrison's splendid performance of Mephisto, which is said by many prominent critics to surpass Henry Irving's in declamatory power and subtlety, have evoked universally favorable comment in the Dominion.

On the New Hampshire circuit this week: Sadie Martinot in The Marriage Game; Our New Minister; The Penitent; Human Hearts; Archie Boyd in Vermont; Mildred Holland in The Power Behind the Throne; J. R. Waite in Uncle Terry; A Breezy Time; the Corse Payton Stock, Morrison Stock, Harcourt Comedy, Etta May Winn, J. C. Rockwell, Lucifer's and Lester A. Davis repertoire companies, and Kelly's Lady Minstrels.

One of the exciting scenes in Last River resulted somewhat seriously for Paul Gilmore last week in Baltimore. The heroine of the play rides from the back of the stage to the footlights on a spirited horse pursued by two mounted bandits, carrying money which they are intent on robbing her of. Two accomplices close a heavy wooden tollgate which stretches across the stage, so that her pursuers may overtake her. When the hero smashes the bolt, opens the gate just long enough for the girl to ride on to safety before slamming it in the face of the baffled robbers. The horse the heroine was riding became excited, galloped rapidly on and threw Paul Gilmore under its hoofs before its wild career was checked. A broken thumb and severe bruises necessitated Gilmore's appearing with his arm in a sling for several nights thereafter and gained the favor of the audience for his pluck.

Archie Boyd enjoys a nightly feast of molasses candy in the candy-pulling scene with the children in Vermont, a new play in which Boyd appears this season. Of late years pumpkin pies, baked beans, brown bread, and the nightly turkey in Shore Acres have been the stage diet. Boyd has had to assimilate in the many rural dramas he has been as associated with.

For a town of its size, Atkinson has a notable list of couples having had fifty years of married life, who include Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Steele, Mr. and Mrs. Moody Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. John Perry and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Little, the latter couple having been married nearly sixty years. Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Sawyer will round out a half century Nov. 13.

A camp of Sons of Veterans will be organized in Exeter on Nov. 20, for which a successful life seems assured. There are forty-five names on the application charter.

No one would ever be bothered with constipation if everyone knew how naturally and quickly Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the stomach and glands.

Cures croup, sore throat, pulmonary troubles.—Monarch over pain of every sort. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil.

"A dose in time saves lives." Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup; nature's remedy for coughs, colds, pulmonary diseases of every sort.

Scald head is an eczema of the scalp—very severe sometimes, but it can be cured. Doan's Ointment, quick and permanent in its results. At any drug store, 50 cents.

ROCKINGHAM COUNTY.

Exeter is to have a Camp of Sons of Veterans.

S. A. Dow will open a new store at North Hampton.

The Collins shoe factory at Danville will start up soon.

R. F. Towle of Danville raised 100 bushels of corn on an acre of ground.

A new furnace has been placed in the Presbyterian church at Londonderry.

William H. McDevitt is to open a general store at the Fred E. Barber stand at Hampton Falls.

It is reported that Edgar True of Amesbury has purchased the John M. Smith farm, the largest in South Hampton.

Reuben Morrill of South Hampton has purchased the standing timber of John Anderson's farm, Hillside, and will start it off this winter.

Atkinson has five couples who have rounded out the fifty years of happy married life, and a sixth will attain to that prominence Nov. 18.

OPENING AT DARTMOUTH.

New College Hall Scene of Faculty and Student Gathering.

HANOVER, Oct. 28.—The problem of closer social relations between students and professors is in a way to be most satisfactorily solved at Dartmouth. Saturday evening the clubrooms of the new college hall were formerly opened and a number of students and professors met in an informal social gathering.

College hall was erected this summer at an expense of $75,000 for the express purpose of furnishing a social headquarters for Dartmouth students. It is a handsome colonial structure, built in modern club style, and is completely equipped in every way for the social use of the students, all of whom are members, having full management and responsibility.

A magnificent dining hall, furnished oak paneling, seating 400 persons, is a small part of the quarters. An assembly room capable of seating 300 men and magazine, newspaper and trophy rooms, with private officers for departments, are also provided.

The new hall is in oak. Every room has an immense fireplace and comfortable window seats. In the assembly room a piano is provided, and the walls are hung with valuable paintings, depicting scenes in the life of the college dear to Dartmouth men.

K. Archibald, '02, president of the union, called the meeting to order that night, and President William J. Tucker opened the program. He referred to Dartmouth spirit of unity, enlisting in the new club which gave the students a feeling of ownership, freedom and fellowship.

He was followed by Prof. G. F. Richeson, E. F. Bartlett and H. H. Torne, who were happily received.

Instrumental music was furnished by the Dartmouth orchestra and college songs were rendered by the Glee club. Informal smoke talks of a like nature to be a feature on the last Saturday evening of each month.

ORIGIN OF WHIST.

Something About This Very Popular Pastime.

Lennard Leigh, the well known authority on whist, contributes the following article to the October Era.

The following statement called from the current number of a magazine is a egregious blunder:

"The originator of the game of whist was Edmond Doyle (1672-1769). Cotton writing in 1704 tells us that whist was so well known at that time that every child almost of eight years old, hath a competent knowledge of the creature. Doyle was then not two years of age. But we must go a great deal farther back to the origin of the game, which is indeed out in the obscurity of the centuries. Previous to 1536 the game of Triumph (whist-trump) which embraced the essential features of whist, had considerable vogue in England. It furnished Bishop Latimer with an illustration for a sermon preached at Christmas, 1522: Shakespeare's familiarity with the game is evident from Anthony's address to Eros ('Antony and Cleopatra' Act IV, scene XIV.)

The game acquired the name of whist, or whist, in the forepart of the seventeenth century. Butler uses the present appellation in Hudibras (1663).

About 1728 a little circle of players resided over by the then Lord Folkestone, was wont to meet in the town office house. This was the inchoate scientific whist. Doyle was probably a member of the coterie in question. The publication of his treatise (1742) and his efforts as a professor teacher did much to establish the game in the favor of the upper class of English society.

INEXPENSIVE FLORIDA TOURS.

For the benefit of the Florida tourists, who desire to go South during October and November, the undersigned has arranged for four special excursions to Jacksonville, Fla., and return, leaving Boston Oct. 31st, Nov. 8th, 15th and 29th, at the rate of $44, first-class, or $36, intermediate.

This includes first class passage to New York, by rail to Providence and steamer from Providence to New York via Sound Line, and meals and state room berth on the steamer from New York.

As the number for each excursion is limited, an early application for space should be made. Full particulars will be sent on receipt of 20c stamp by Geo. F. Tilton, City Pass. Agt., No. 214 Washington St., Boston. Telephone 2022 Main.

NEW HAMPSHIRE STATE LIBRARY.

The interest which is manifested in the libraries of the countries has become so widespread that hardly a day passes but a gift of more or less value is recorded, both large and small institutions profiting by the generosity of individuals. In this way the New Hampshire State library has benefitted largely of late, having received valuable additions by G. F. Henry M. Tarter has given a complete set of the History of the Rebellion, bound in full leather, with a gift of much interest and value has been received from C. H. White, surgeon in the United States navy, retired. Among the books received from Mr. White are Garnier's Voyage; Exploration of Indo-China, two volumes and an atlas, published in Paris in 1873 and of which only a few copies are in this country; Matthew's Encyclopaedia Medicinae, two volumes, published in Venice in 1565; Galleri Elementa Physiologiae Corporis Humani, eight volumes, published in 1757, and Solden's Geographia del Peru, published in Madrid in 1823.

Within recent years the growth of the state library has been phenomenal and it now ranks with the leading institutions of the great states. The library is open every week day and not only may it be used as a reference library but in the more important departments books are forwarded to all parts of the state, local libraries serving as distributing agents.

The next time John Most cuts anything out of the files for reprinting he will look twice and make sure that it is a short story or a hint on housekeeping.

When a Nebraska farmer can afford to pay $100 for a heifer the voice of calamity may be said to have been hushed. By the way, how can Mr. Bryan explain to Kentucky admirers his preference for shorthorns?

Now that grasshoppers are compressed into bricks and sold for poultry food the long-legged insect may develop a debase constitution and grow scarce. It will seem strange when tears are expressed of the failure of the grasshopper crop.

Thanks to Sir Thomas Lipton, yachting in American waters is likely to have the zest of international competition, under pleasant and sportsmanship conditions, for at least two years to come. He is to leave the Shamrock here for participation in races for which she is eligible in 1902, and will come with a new challenger in 1903.

It now seems the determination of leading republicans and sound-money democrats in congress to settle, once and forever, at the next session, the currency question of the country upon a gold basis. The quicker this is done the better it will be. The matter is practically settled now, and only needs one more turn to eliminate the same for all time to come from the politics of the nation.

The British are not the only persons in the South African war who are buying supplies on the outside. The Boers, it is said, are negotiating for arms in France and South America, and are getting horses from Russia. These reports may all be true, and they may not. It seems, however, that the Boers have had a pretty good supply of arms and horses all along. The South African war has been especially hard on horses. The stories afloat just before the war began that the Boers were preparing for this struggle for many years must have been true.

FROM MR. TOMLINSON.

Something About a Recent Case Involving Christian Science.

Editor of the Herald.—Concerning the item which recently appeared in the Chronicle about a case which died under the doctor's care in Chelsea in which the M. D. attempted to shift the responsibility upon the Christian Scientists, I ask you to print the following letter, sent voluntarily to me, about Farlow of Boston by his wife.

"Mr. Eustis was not a believer in Christian Science except as he had seen it do good work. He was not a member of the Christian Science church, but of the First Congregational church. He was not confined to his bed until the third week, when the doctor was called, and told him to stay there. He was not in a 'bad state' until the doctor was called by his father and sister.

"I am not a practitioner, but am trying to be a Christian Scientist, and fought against the doctor coming, as did Mr. Eustis himself, and from the time the doctor came he failed rapidly. However, too much cannot be said of Dr. Leeds's devotion—it was beautiful."

The following from an editorial in the Boston Globe of October 16, is also in point:

In this connection it is to be noticed that a certificate filed by the Chelsea board of health these words are used: "Disease, chief cause, typhoid fever; contributing cause, Christian Science." Now this is to say the least, decidedly discourteous. Suppose some 'irregular' practitioner had lost a case, and had fled with the board of health, "Disease, chief cause, typhoid fever; contributing cause, medical science," would it not have been reprimanded?

In a court of law many maintain that no man is justified in saying what is not religion for other people, or what is not "science." The "regulars" must not expect to "down" Christian Science on what are in courts of law ruled to be pure assumptions.

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES.

Fernley House, by Laura E. Richards, published by Dana Estes & Company, Boston. Square 16mo, cloth, handsome cover design and on an excellent finish paper; illustrated. Ethelred B. Barry, $1.25.

Those who have read Geoffrey Strong need no recommendation of the works of Laura E. Richards.

"Fernley House" is a delightful country estate, with grounds, garret, charming old furniture, and a mystery. It is no Castle of Otranto, though. Its walls ring with laughter, and it holds the most charming summer party of young people ever gathered under one roof: Peggy, Jean, Hugh, Grace, Margaret, Gerald, and high-hearted old Uncle John, the chaperone, adviser and friend.

This is a capital story for young or old, —even the most mature reader must find it absorbing,—but it is perhaps most ideally adapted to the tastes of girls from seventeen to twenty-two.

The one word that describes the story is vital. The young people are alive and contemporary, and seem so real that we wonder where the author could have become intimately acquainted with so many original and agreeable boys and girls, each so different from the rest and yet so interesting in his own right.

The girls are highly bred, though natural and full of fun; fond of slang and escapades, yet charming women in the making, and lovable even in their faults. And the boys are fine, mainly young fellows, yet boys to the very heart of them. It must be said in passing that the author's knowledge of boys is wonderful; her intimate familiarity with girls is, of course, known to everybody; for upon whom, pray, has the mantle of Louisa Alcott fallen unless upon Laura Richards, whose stories have reached a circulation of over half a million copies, among her eager young admirers?

A little thread of wholesome romance runs through the story, and terminates in a happy denouement. The style is vivacious and convincing, and the simple yet fascinating plot grips one's sympathies tenaciously.

Mrs. Richards is too true an artist to make the moral of her story over evident, but it is safe to say that no young man or woman can read this tale without a firmer determination to cultivate honor, courtesy and unselfishness.

"Fernley House" forms the fifth and last volume in the popular "Three Margarets" series, yet it may be intelligently read by itself.

The Woman's Home Companion for November opens with a Thanksgiving story by Mary E. Wilkins. Another New England story is "The Diplomacy of Grandma Gaze," by Sophie Swett. Herbert D. Ward contributes "The Man Who Failed." An especially timely article is "Football Heroes," by Mrs. Walter Camp. The beginning of a series dealing with "Catholic Marriage Customs," deals with marriage in Russia. Articles of vital interest to housekeepers are "November Settings and Cheer," by Mrs. Larned, "The New Art," "Danish Needlework," "Gold Bullion Embroidery," "Women at the Exposition," and several pages of fashions. There are three reproductions of notable paintings. Published by the Crowell & Kirkpatrick Co., Springfield, Ohio; one dollar a copy; ten cents a copy; sample copy free.

The Old Corner Bookstore in Boston reports that The Tory Lover, Miss Jewett's new romance, is one of the two books most in demand for the week ending Oct. 18.

A recent number of London Punch pays the following generous tribute to an American book published last spring: . . . "The refreshing pages of King's End, a simple unlabored story of New England village life, by Alice Brown. Here is no fatuous pomp of melodrama, no tawdry bravado to hide the place where the pup-pet's heart never so much as begins to beat. We breathe the immediate air of nature, alive and palpable. Yet there is nothing in the whole book that is obvious or unmediated; each type has its own fresh piquancy; we seem not to have met them before, and yet are never doubtful that they are to be met, and well worth meeting. It is quite admirable how, within the narrow limits she has assigned to her ch. the author has had the genius to create characters so individual, so clearcut, so diverse. To English readers of this book its harmony or humor and pathos may appear more exquisitely than to those with whom the manner of speech and life which it reflects, is more intimate. But no one can conceivably resist the charm of the author's humanity, the strong reserve of her eloquence, her instant feeling for the felicitous word."

Nothing stronger or more to the point about the political campaign which is just being fought in New York has been written than Mr. Jacob A. Riis' article on Tammany which appears in the Outlook dated October 26. Mr. Riis has fought Tammany in many ways in lower New York, as has been told in his How the Other Half Lives, A Ten Year's War and The Making of an American, which is just concluded as a serial in the Outlook, and is to appear in book form.

The change in the name of The Era, formerly entitled The Literary Era, gives the publishers opportunity to greatly enlarge its scope. The October number contains a lot of good fiction, notably a story by "Q" — A. Quiller-Couch, one by Gorky, the new Russian writer, another by William Henry Babcock, having for its theme the assassination of President Lincoln. Poetry and original illustrations are added features.

The south has for more than one generation been the stage for a fatal drama. Among the earlier scenes there enacted were those presented in Mrs. Stowe's romantic Uncle Tom's Cabin. They were followed by the terrible realism of the Civil war. Then came the somewhat melodramatic Reconstruction period portrayed in Tourgee's A Fool's Errand. We are now witnessing another extraordinary development in the Disfranchise movement, which like the earlier acts of the great drama, has as its motif the disquieting color question, and has its best presentation in Charles W. Chesnutt's powerful story, The Marrow of Tradition—a novel just from the press of Houghton, Mifflin & company, that will recall at many points its great precursor, Uncle Tom's Cabin.

Paul Jones is a figure that can never lose its interest for Americans, and one of the most vivid portraits of him is to be found in Miss Jewett's Tory Lover, which Messrs. Houghton, Mifflin & company announce for immediate publication.

Mr. Alsheler's In Circles Camps, a romance of the American Civil war, is said to meet with such continued favor that the war may possibly become again a favorite theme with novelists. Among other novels dealing with various phases of the war which have been published comparatively recently by D. Appleton and company are The Jay-Hawkers, by Mrs. A. E. Orpen, The Gospel Writ in Steel, by Arthur Patterson, and The Iron Game, by H. E. Keenan.

The occasion for the St. Louis exposition to be held in 1902 lies in the splendid history of the Mississippi valley which has just been written by James K. Hosmer, Librarian of the Minneapolis library. The book will be published in October by Messrs. Houghton, Mifflin & company.

The November number of the Ladies' Home Journal is full of good things. The Thanksgiving spirit is embodied in an interesting article telling "Where the President's Turkey Comes From," and a delightful short story of "A Daughter of the Pilgrims," by Hezekiah Butterworth. Edith King Swain tells of some thrilling accents she has made, and in "A Voice Heard Around the World" Cleveland Moffett presents much that is new about Ira D. Sankey, the greatest of living evangelists. A new romance by Frederick M. Smith, entitled "Christine," begins in this issue, and Miss Laura Spencer Porter's delightful "Gentleman of the Blue Grass" is continued. One of the most attractive features is the first of the rooms in the "Bradley House" designed for the Journal by Will Bradley.

The Thanksgiving spirit is embodied in an interesting article telling "Where the President's Turkey Comes From," and a delightful short story of "A Daughter of the Pilgrims," by Hezekiah Butterworth. Edith King Swain tells of some thrilling accents she has made, and in "A Voice Heard Around the World" Cleveland Moffett presents much that is new about Ira D. Sankey, the greatest of living evangelists. A new romance by Frederick M. Smith, entitled "Christine," begins in this issue, and Miss Laura Spencer Porter's delightful "Gentleman of the Blue Grass" is continued. One of the most attractive features is the first of the rooms in the "Bradley House" designed for the Journal by Will Bradley.
